

Chase Eikenbary

Vice President of Project Management, Regional Growth Partnership

Chase Eikenbary is the Vice President of Project Management at the Regional Growth Partnership (RGP), bringing over 10 years of dedicated experience. At RGP, she plays a pivotal role in driving economic growth across Northwest Ohio, focusing on the region's and JobsOhio's key industry sectors. Her expertise spans advanced manufacturing, including plastics and packaging, steel, automotive, distribution and logistics, energy, food processing, and agribusiness.

Chase skillfully manages a diverse portfolio of projects, from large-scale industrial developments to smaller initiatives, many with an international scope. Her work frequently involves facilitating site and building selection for companies considering Ohio, as well as developing crucial workforce strategies for existing businesses investing in their Ohio operations.

Before joining RGP, Chase served under Governor John Kasich, where she covered the same Northwest Ohio territory, collaborating with companies on behalf of the administration.

Her leadership has been widely recognized, including being named among the "Top 20 Under 40" in Ohio and acknowledged within her University of Findlay alumni network. Chase holds both undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Findlay, including an MBA with a focus on public administration and organizational leadership.

Outside of her professional endeavors, Chase is a multifaceted entrepreneur. She resides in Hancock County with her husband, where they own and operate a landscape business. Additionally, she independently operates a Jazzercise franchise and a nutrition coaching business for women.
