

Robyn Bancroft, AICP

Strategic Initiatives Manager

OKI Regional Council of Governments

Robyn is responsible for managing cutting-edge transportation planning related to freight, economic development, transit, and technology, as well as the identification and coordination of the public/private partnerships and funding to achieve them. At the state level, Robyn serves as Chair of the Ohio Freight Advisory Committee and the Metropolitan Planning Organization Representative for the Kentucky Freight Advisory Committee for Transportation. Before starting at OKI in 2004, Robyn's career included the positions of executive director of The AMOS Project, a Cincinnati regional social justice not-for-profit; neighborhood planner for the City of Rockford, Illinois; and economic development planner for the Connecticut Metropolitan Council of Governments. She earned a master's degree in Urban and Regional Planning from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and a bachelor's degree in Art History, Criticism and Conservation from Florida State University.
